Rain Stops the Game at Pottsville in the Fourth Inning with the Score Three to Nothing in Our Favor. Easton Now Adorns the Tail End. The Farce Enacted by Pouty League Managers at Harrisburg-Other Incidents of a Day's Sporting Battles.

The past week has been a disastrous one for the local team. Out of five games played four went to the other fellows. The single victory won during the week was at Allensown against Mike Kelly's Hobos. Yesterday's game at Pottsville was ended in the fourth inning, by rain, with the score standing 8 to 0 in Scranton's faver. Harrisburg at this writing has the unprecedented record of fifteen consecutive victories out of fifteen games played. Jupiter Pluvius' kindness yesterday elevated us from the tail end, which distinguished place is now held by Esston. The incident of the week was the farce enacted at Harrisburg, reported in detail in yesterday's paper. After see-sawing, resignations, pouting and baby play in general, the old regime was reinstated, with Myers, of Harrisburg, as president and Diddlebock, of Philadelphia, as secretary The games yesterday resulted as fol-

How a Baby's Cry Saved a Life. "Confound that child, how he yells!" exclaimed an irate passenger on a Coney island boat, "I'd like to see the brat spanked or chucked overboard. I don't see why children are made so that they can howl so loud anyhow."

"Of course you don't," replied the irate man's companion, who had been listening to the infantile squalls without any signs of perturbation. "Of course you don't. How should a crusty old bachelor know anything about matters." Texas & Pac. 1536

"Saved a life by howling? Go and tell that to the marines!"

"It is a fact, I assure you," replied the imperturbable man, lighting a fresh cigar. "I have my mother's word for it that when I was a baby in arms I used to be a pro-digious howler. When I was three my elder brother was six years old. One winter morning he went out to a pond that was covered with ice and I toddied after him, luckily for him. He began poking at the ice with a stick, and in he flopped and came up under the ice, so that all the chances were dead against him. I didn't waste any time trying to get him out. I just devoted my energies to doing what I could do best-I howled as I had never howled before.

"One of the servants was in the garden a long way off hanging up clothes. But my penetrating howl reached her, and instead of howling back to me to shut up, as you would have done, she clapped on a full head of steam and made a bee line for that pond. Fortunately she kept hold of the clothes prop that she had had in her hand when my signal of alarm reached her and arrived just in time to fish my brother out before life became extinct. My howling did it. And that's why whenever I hear a child howl I never murmur. You can never tell when the howl may come in handy."-New York Herald.

Five Years Old and Had Whiskers.

A remarkable account is given by Dr. Dawkes, a surgeon of St. Ives, who published in 1744 "An Account of the Gigantic Boy of Willingham." This boy was Thomas Hall, who, when two years and eleven months old, was 3 feet 9 inches in height, and at the age of four years one month was 4 feet 5 Inches in height; so, had be grown up to manhood at this rate, he would have attained 9 or 10 feet. When he died in his fifth year he had a thick pair of whiskers and weighed about eighty-five pounds -New York Times,

> Says a dispatch from Indianapolis; "Experiments have been made during the past few days at the Ellwood tin plate mill, the result of which will surprise the mechani-cal and industrial world. Superintendent Richards has been prosecuting this series of experiments with the assistance of several skilled workmen, and they have succeeded in rolling out several large sheets of tin to the thinness of 200,000th of an inch. When it is considered that the difficulty of rolling gold plate to the 180, -000th of an inch makes the process so very expensive, the feat of rolling tin plate to the 50,000th of an inch thinner is muni-festly a remarkable achievement. It is so wonderful that specimens of this plate, be-side which the airlest tissue is like boiler plate, will be exhibited as a marvel of mechanical achievement in the leading cities of this country."
